

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Sunday Olayinka ALAWODE, PhD, is an Associate Professor of Broadcasting at the School of Communication, Lagos State University. His research interests include new technologies/new media, broadcasting, video films, communication and religion, health communication, cultural communication, portrayal studies, and development communication. He is widely published in local and foreign publications, and has attended many conferences and workshops in Nigeria, South Africa, India, United Kingdom and United States of America. He is a member of the African Council for Communication Education (ACCE), Association of Communication and Professional Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria and the International Association for Media and Communication Research.

Ahmad Muhammad AUWAL is a lecturer in the Department of Mass Communication, Nasarawa State University, Keffi. His area of specialisation includes new media, digital and intercultural communications. Auwal is a member of professional associations, including the Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria; and the African Council for Communication Education. He has many chapters and articles in referred books and journals to his credit.

Kunle Yunus AZEEZ is a PhD Student in the Department of Mass Communication, Olabisi Onabanjo University, Ago-Iwoye, Ogun State. He is currently a Deputy Manager, Consumer Bureau Affairs Department, Nigerian Communications Commission, Abuja. Azeez is a multi-award winning journalist who reported ICT/Telecoms, covered international conferences across Africa, the Americas, Europe and Middle East, and worked at Financial Standard, National Mirror and New Telegraph Newspapers. He is an Associate Member of the Nigerian Institute of Public Relations; a member of the Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria and member of Nigeria Union of Journalists.

Daniel CHILE lectures in the Department of Mass Communication, Benue State University Makurdi, Nigeria, where he obtained his PhD in 2015. He is a member, African Council for Communication Education, Nigeria Chapter, and has published in peer reviewed journals, locally and internationally. His research interests include media and society, political communication and new media.

Edith EBISI studied Linguistics at the University of Jos and has a Postgraduate Diploma in Communication Studies at the Nigerian Institute of Journalism, Ikeja. She briefly practiced investigative journalism with Bi-Communication Lagos before her current Master's programme at the Lagos State University School of Communication.

Stephen Sonayon FATONJI teaches broadcasting at the Lagos State University School of Communication, where he graduated with first class honours. He practiced Journalism at Voice of Nigeria between 2013 and 2017, and as a reporter at Rima Television, Sokoto during his national service. He is a PhD candidate at the Lagos State University School of Communication, and a member of the Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria and African Council for Communication Education.

Kabir Alabi GARBA, is a PhD student at the Department of Mass Communication, University of Lagos and an Assistant Editor at The Guardian. He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Arabic Language and Literature, University of Ibadan, a Postgraduate Diploma in Journalism, Nigerian

Institute of Journalism, and a Master of Science, Mass Communication, Lagos State University. He is a member, Nigeria Union of Journalists, Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria.

Kenneth Adibe NWAFOR, PhD, is a lecturer in the Department of Mass Communication, Ebonyi State University, Abakaliki, Nigeria. He specialises on Print journalism, Communication Research, and New Media Studies. He is the Managing Editor of EBSU Journal of Mass Communication. He is a member of ACCE. His most recent publication is “Impact of Contempt of Court and Invasion of Privacy Laws on Press Freedom in Nigeria”, published in the International Journal of Humanities and Social Sciences Invention.

Chinedu Christian ODOEMELAM teaches communication and media studies at the Igbinedion University, Okada, Nigeria. He holds a PhD in Mass Communication, University of Nigeria, Nsukka, Nigeria. His areas of teaching and research are health communication, political communication and digital media. He has published widely in local and international communication platforms. His latest book is: Obstetric Fistula and Communication Interventions in Nigeria: Targeting Men's Knowledge on Prevention and Treatment, Published in Germany. He is a member of African Council for Communication Education and Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria.

Ayodele Thomas ODUNLAMI, PhD, is a Senior Lecturer, Department of Mass Communication, Olabisi Onabanjo University, Ago-Iwoye, Nigeria. He worked as Reporter/Researcher, Sub-Editor and Principal Editor respectively in the defunct African Guardian, Champion Newspapers, and the Ogun State Television, Channel 25 UHF, Abeokuta. His latest co-authored publication is Waste to Wealth Perspective: Identifying Waste Potentials for Small Scale Business Development in Ogun State, Nigeria.

Oludare Ebenezer OGUNYOMBO, is a PhD candidate in the Department of Mass Communication, Olabisi Onabanjo University, Ago Iwoye, Ogun State. He is the Group Head, Media, Brooks and Blake Nigeria Limited, Associate Lecturer in the Department of Mass Communication, Caleb University Business School, Magodo, Lagos State, and has worked as a development communication consultant with the United Nations Children Emergency Fund (UNICEF), and National Youth Service Corps. He is a member, Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals, African Council for Communication Education, and Chairman, Strategic Action for Affirmative Public Relations Committee, Nigerian Institute of Public Relations, Lagos State Chapter. His areas of interest are public relations, journalism and development communication.

Majority OJI, PhD, is a Senior Lecturer, Department of Mass Communication, Delta State University, Abraka, Nigeria. He studied Mass Communication and Development Communication at the Universities of Lagos, and Nnamdi Azikiwe University, Awka, Nigeria. His research focus includes print, broadcast and the new media and their strategic application in development communication in the Niger Delta and Nigeria. His most recent scholarly article, “Poverty Alleviation Agencies' Information Campaigns and the Information Gained by the Vulnerable in the Niger Delta” was published in the Journal of Global Communication, Australia. He is Vice President, South South Zone, Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria.

Nnanyelugo OKORO, Ph.D is a Professor of Mass Communication and Dean, Faculty of Arts, University of Nigeria, Nsukka. His areas of specialisation include Advertising and Public Relations Research, Mass Communication Law, and Media Management. He is a member of APCON and ACCE. His most recent publication is on “Issues in the evolution of public relations in Nigeria”; published in the Journal of International Communication.

Matthew Kolawole ONI holds a B. A degree in Yoruba and English, University of Ife, a Post Graduate Diploma and an MSc degree in Mass Communication from the University of Lagos. He has worked as a lecturer at the Department of Mass Communication, University of Lagos, and as a Publisher at Longman Nigeria PLC now Learn Africa PLC. He is presently the Group General Manager of Melrose Books and Publishing Ltd and a doctoral candidate of the School of Communication, Lagos State University.

Olayinka OYEGBILE is a journalist and writer. He is Deputy Editor, The Nation newspapers. He has a Master's degree from the University of Jos and a Bachelor's degree from Bayero University Kano. He has won journalism awards, including World Health Organisation on Public Health Reporting. He is a PhD candidate in Communication Studies at Lagos State University, Ojo.

Umaru PATE, professor, is the immediate past Dean, Faculty of Communication, Bayero University, Kano, former head, Department of Mass Communication, University of Maiduguri. He holds a PhD, Master of Philosophy and Bachelor of Arts degrees in Mass Communication, from the University of Maiduguri and University of Ghana, Legon. In 2017, he was appointed a Director representing Africa on the six-person Board of Directors, International Network of UNESCO Professors in Communication (ORBICOM) with headquarters at the University of Quebec, Montreal, Canada. He has over 66 local and international academic publications, is a recipient of academic awards and recognitions, and chairs the Board of Directors of Pulaaku FM Radio, Yola. He has won grants from Ford Foundation, National Agency for the Control of AIDS, the World Bank, OTI/USAID, UNESCO, Panos Institute of Washington, Friedrich Ebert Foundation of Germany, the Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and MacArthur Foundation. He is the Deputy President of ACSPN.

Hassan Husseini SHAIBU, is a Ph.D student and Fellow, Department of Mass Communication, University of Lagos. He holds a first class Bachelors of Science degree, a Post Graduate Diploma and a Master of Science degree (Distinction) in Mass Communication from the Lagos State University, University of Nigeria and University of Lagos respectively. He is a Member of the Nigerian Institute of Public Relations, and Association of Communication scholars & Professionals of Nigeria. He recently published 'Communication Imperative of the Change Begins with Me Campaign of the Federal Government of Nigeria' in the Public Relations Journal.

Tordue Simon, TARGEMA is a Graduate Assistant, Department of Mass Communication, Taraba State University, Jalingo. He is, currently, a M.Sc. candidate in the Department of Mass Communication, Bayero University, Kano, Nigeria. He has co-authored articles in peer-reviewed journals; and a previous edition of the Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria Book Series. He has also presented papers at academic conferences, and is a member of ACSPN. His research interests include media and society, film studies, social media and conflict discourse/management in multiethnic societies.