

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Tokunbo Alex ADAJA, Professor of Mass Communication, currently lectures at Joseph Ayo Babalola University, Ikeji-Arakeji, Osun State, Nigeria. He holds a B.Sc (Sociology), Ibadan; PGD (Journalism), Lagos; M.A. Communication and Language Arts, University of Ibadan; Ph.D. Mass Communication, Babcock University, Ilishan-Remo. His areas of research interest include, Journalism and Media Studies, Development Communication, Public Relations and Advertising, Applied Communication, Cultural and Political Communication. He has published in many national and international journals. He is a member of many professional associations which include ACCE, NUJ, ACSPN, and NIPR. His recent publications include, Nigerian Women and Journalism Practice: The Quest for Gender Equality, and Nigerian Press and the Political Class: Identifying Linkages to Overcome Challenges of the Current Dispensation.

Ifedolapo ADEMOSU, Assistant Lecturer, Department of Mass Communication, Caleb University, Imota, Lagos, holds a B.Sc and M.Sc in Mass Communication from the University of Lagos and an MBA from the Lagos Business School. She is interested in New and Digital Media Cultures, and Cultural and Environmental Communication. Her paper, “Inspiring sustainable environmental habits: Two Online Newspaper Systems” appeared in the Book Series 1 of the Association of Communication Scholars and Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN). She is a member of the Advertising Practitioners Council of Nigeria (APCON) and ACSPN.

Idowu Rasheed BADMUS is a postgraduate student in the Department of Mass Communication, University of Ilorin. He obtained his Bachelor of Science and Master of Science, Mass Communication from Ahmadu Bello University, Zaria and University of Ilorin, respectively. His research interest covers various intersections in Political Communication and he has a number of publications in both local and international journals. His latest publication titled “Agora for Diaspora: Exploring the use of Nairaland Online Forum for political Deliberation among Nigeria Emigrants” is forthcoming in the Nigerian Journal of Communication. He is a member of African Council for Communication Education (ACCE) and Association of Communication Scholars and Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN).

Oluwatobi Michael FOLORUNSHO, lectures at the Polytechnic Igbo-Owu, Kwara State, holds a B.Sc. in Mass Communication, Kwara State University Malete, National Diploma and Higher National Diploma in Mass Communication, Osun State Polytechnic, Iree, Osun State. His research interest includes Development Communication, Print Journalism, Media Research, Public Relations and Advertising. He has published in reputable journals, and is a member of ACSPN, ACCE and ACICRM.

Kabir Alabi GARBA, Fellow, International Centre for Journalists, USA, is Deputy Editor, The Guardian, is a doctoral student, Department of Mass Communication, University of Lagos. He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Arabic Language and Literature, University of Ibadan, Postgraduate Diploma in Journalism, Nigerian Institute of Journalism, and Master of Science, Mass Communication, Lagos State University. He is a member, Nigeria Union of Journalists and zonal coordinator, Southwest, Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria. He recently co-authored 'Media power in Nigeria: Real or imaginary?' published in Journal of Communication and Media Research.

Ismail Adegboyega IBRAHEEM, PhD (Leicester), is an Associate Professor, Communication and Journalism Studies at the Department of Mass Communication, University of Lagos. He is also Acting Director, Centre for International Relations, Partnerships and Prospects, of the University. His research interest includes global communication, African journalism, political communication and critical research tradition in African media.

Catherine Isioma NWOKORO, Lecturer 11, Department of Mass Communication, Wellspring University, Benin City, holds a B.Sc, M.CM and M.Sc degrees in Mass Communication and is a Ph.D. student in Chukwuemeka Odumegwu Ojukwu University, Anambra State. Her areas of specialization are Advertising, rural communication/media, Public relations and international communication. She has published articles, and is a member of Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN) and Centre for Language Research and English Proficiency (CLAREP).

Chinedu Christian ODOEMELAM is a Senior Lecturer and Head, Department of Mass Communication, Igbinedion University Okada. He is the author of the book: Obstetric Fistula and Communication Interventions in Nigeria: Targeting Men's Knowledge on Prevention and Treatment, published in 2017. He has shared his research findings in Nigeria and international forums such as the 5th World Journalism Education Congress (WJEC) in Dauphine University, Paris, France; and the East African Communication Association (EACA) Conference at the Aga Khan University Graduate School of Media in Nairobi, Kenya.

Queen Ekemeye ODOEMELAM is of the Department of Mass Communication, Igbinedion University Okada. She is a regular Presenter on the 90.5 FM Igbinedion University campus radio health programmes. Her research interest includes communication intervention in illegal migration and social media. She has published works in various communication journals like the Nigeria Journal of Communication, ACCE. She has participated in international public speaking and debates in Nigeria and the Republic of Botswana.

Linus .I. OGBUOSHI, Professor, Enugu State University of Science and Technology, Enugu, holds a: BSc. M.Sc, Ph.D, University of Uyo. His areas of specialisation are: Communicology, Research Methodologies, Health/Development Communication, Public Relations and Advertising and New Media and Film Studies. His latest publications are “Boko Haram Insurgency, National insecurity and polarized Nigeria: A pedagogical and Analogical Study of Media Silence visa Vis Responsive Journalism” in the Journal of Humanities and Social Sciences, and “False Advertising Promises: Implication on Product Perception and Patronage”, in Journal of Arts and Humanities. He is a Association for the advancement of Knowledge (NAFAK), African Council for Communication Education (ACCE), Association of Nigerian Publishers (ANP), and Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN).

Joyce OGWEZI, pioneer Head and Senior Lecturer, Department of Mass Communication, Delta State University, Abraka, obtained a B.Ed. (Arts) English, University of Benin, MA and Ph.D. Communication and Language Arts, University of Ibadan. A former oil and gas industry, he is co-author of two books on broadcasting and environmental development, and published on communication, sustainable development, gender and peace communication, developed and deployed a World Bank-funded Master Plan on Environmental Public Awareness for Nigeria. She is a member, Global Alliance for Media and Gender, USA, African Council for

Communication Education, and Regional Council Member, Conflict Mitigation and Management for Delta State (in collaboration with USAID and FESH)

Majority OJI, Senior Lecturer, Department of Mass Communication, Delta State University, Abraka,. holds a Bachelor of Science and Master of Science, Mass Communication, University of Lagos, Akoka, and Ph.D., Mass Communication, Nnandi Azikiwe University, Awka. He is a Behavior Change Communication expert and his recent publications include “Government Mobilization of Public Opinion in Support of its Communicated Anti-corruption Policies” Media Reflections on Governance and development in Nigeria, and “Poverty Alleviation Agencies' Information Campaigns and the Information Gained by the Vulnerable in the Niger Delta” in the Journal of Global Communication, Australia. He is Vice President South South Zone, Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria, ACSPN and member, African Council for Communication Education.

Simon Ayodele OKAIYETO, lectures at Department of Mass Communication, Salem University, Lokoja, Nigeria. He obtained his Bachelor of Science and Master of Science in Mass Communication from Ahmadu Bello University, Zaria and University of Ilorin respectively. His research interest is in theory and research in mass media, Political Communication and New Media. He has published in local and international journals. His latest publication - “Media, Public Opinion and Democracy in Nigeria: A critique of the Current State of Affairs”. is in the book titled “Mass Media in Nigeria: Theories, Research and Practice”. He is a member of African Council for Communication Education (ACCE) and Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN).

Oluwakemi Mufutau ORIOLA, Senior Lecturer, Department of Creative Arts, Tai Solarin University of Education, Ijagun, Ogun State, holds a Diploma in Public Relations and Bachelor of Arts in Mass Communication, Olabisi Onabanjo University, Ago Iwoye, Master of Science in Mass Communication, University of Lagos, Akoka, and PhD Mass Communication, Babcock University, Ilishan Remo. His areas of specialisation and research interest are. Journalism and Publishing, Political Communication and Media Content Studies. Some of his recent publications include "The integrated approach as a model for media framing research in the 21st century" in a book titled Communication education research and the 21st century by the African Council for Communication Education (ACCE) and "Factors affecting consequences of political news framing", in the Journal of Communication and Media Research. He is a member, of National Association for Science, Humanities and Education Research, ACCE, and Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN).

Titilayo Remilekun OSUAGWU, Lecturer 1, University of Port Harcourt, Rivers State, Nigeria, obtained a BA from Ahmadu Bello University, Masters and PhD degrees, from University of Port Harcourt. Her areas of interest include Development Communication, Gender and Communication, New Media, Media Cultural/Indigenous Communication and political communication. Her latest publications include “Trumped up Support for Trump: What did the Nigerian women say? (Lexington Books, 2018) and Protest Music and Political Consciousness among Nigerian Youths (IGI- Global Publishers, 2019). Dr. Osuagwu is a member of Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN), African Council for Communication Education (ACCE), Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication (AEJMC), the National Communication Association (NCA) and the International Communication Association (ICA).

Nosa OWENS-IBIE, PhD, University of Ibadan, is Professor of Communication, Media and Development, Deputy Vice-Chancellor, and acting Vice-Chancellor, Caleb University, Imota, Lagos, Nigeria. He has published articles locally and internationally in books and journals, was a columnist in The Guardian on Sunday and Sunday Punch newspapers, and consults for UN, government, and other local and international organisations. He is a Fellow, International Institute of Journalism, Berlin, Germany, and Salzburg Seminar, Austria; member, Nigerian Institute of Public Relations, International Association of Media and Communication Research, and is General Secretary, Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN).

Adeola Sidikat OYELEKE, Assistant Lecturer Alex Ekwueme Federal University, Ndufu Alike Ikwo, Ebonyi State, is a doctoral degree candidate and holds a BSc. University of Ilorin and MSc Ebonyi State University. His areas of specialisation are: Public Relations, Advertising, International Communication and Political Communication. His recent publications “Media Politics, Democracy and Political Development in Nigeria: The Press for National Development” in International Journal of Advanced Academic Research, and “Knowledge and Application of Ethics of Public Relations: Assessment of Professionals in Ebonyi State” in Ebonyi Digital Journal of Public Relations.

Abiodun Solomon OYELEYE, Lecturer, Department of Mass Communication, Caleb University, Imota, Lagos, holds B.A, M.A, Communication and Language Arts, and PhD in Developmental/Applied Communication, University of Ibadan, Ibadan. A former Assistant Editor with over 20 years in journalism practice, poet and author of two anthologies, he has consulted for the United Nations Children Education Fund (Unicef) on the design and implementation of social mobilisation activities on Prevention of Mother-to-Child Transmission of HIV in Nigeria, and the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) on developing advocacy materials on Reproductive Health Commodity Security. His latest publications include “Content, Connectivity and the Nigerian Newspaper in a Digital Age” in AKSU Journal of Communication Research. His research interests include the future of journalism, health and applied communication. He is a member of the Nigeria Union of Journalists, and Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN).

Felix Olajide TALABI, Ph.D, Senior Lecturer, Department of Mass Communication, Redeemer's University Ede, Osun State, Nigeria, holds a B.Sc. Mass Communication, Imo State University, Owerri, M.A Mass Communication, University of Nigeria, Nsukka, and Ph.D., Mass Communication, University of Uyo.. His area of specialisation includes New Media, Public Relations and Advertising and Development Communication. He has published in many national and international journals. Some of his recent publications include “Coverage of the Ban on the Importation of Household Items in Select Nigerian Newspapers”. Fuoye Journal of Communication, and a joint paper on “Newspapers' Coverage of Farmers/Fulani Herdsmen's Crisis in Nigeria (A Study of The Punch, and The Sun Newspapers) in Journal of Communication and Language Arts. He is among others, a member of ACCE; and editorial member, International Journal of InfoTech & General Studies.