

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Kola ADESINA is currently Head of the Department of Mass Communication, Crescent University, Abeokuta and was formerly an Assistant Examiner with the Oxford and Cambridge RSA Examinations Board(OCR), United Kingdom. Kola Adesina has also served as Media Relations Consultant with the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) based in Vienna, Austria. He holds a B.Sc. in Media and Communications, an M.Sc. in Media and Development Studies of the London South Bank University, a Postgraduate Certificate in Education (PGCE) of Canterbury Christchurch University, Kent, UK and a Doctorate Degree in Media and Communications of the University of London. He has taught at all levels of education in Nigeria and the United Kingdom. His research interests include Development Communication, Media Strategies for Investment Promotion, Music, Culture and Communication, Media and Citizenship, Mass Communication Curriculum Review. He recently co-authored “Gone to Stamford Bridge? : Influence of Foreign Football and its Digital Coverage on Youths in Abeokuta” published in Studies in Media and Communication.(Redfame Publishers, Canada.) He is a registered member of the General Teaching Council of England and Wales (GTTC); Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication, (AEJMC) USA and Association of Communication Scholars and Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN) among others.

Francis Arinze ILOANI is an investigative journalist with Daily Trust Newspaper Abuja. He holds a BA in Mass Communication from University of Maiduguri and MSc in Mass Communication from Nasarawa State University. He is a member of the Nigerian Union of Journalists (NUJ).

Tunde Musibau AKANNI, PhD is Senior Lecturer in the Journalism Department of LASU. An accomplished media expert , he sits on the boards of Premium Times Centre for Investigative Journalism, PTCIJ, publishers of the Pulitzer winner, Premium Times and Dubawa, Nigeria's first indigenous fact-checking organization.

Omolade ATOFOJOMO is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of Broadcasting, Lagos State University, Ojo. She has a Bachelor of Arts in Theatre Arts (University of Jos), M.sc in Communication Arts (University of Ibadan) and PhD in Communication Studies (Lagos State University). Her research interests include young people's media, new media and broadcasting.

Yetunde. O. AYOBOLU, PhD, is a Lecturer in the Department of Mass Communication, Koladasi University, Ibadan. She is also a researcher, Development Communication and Gender enthusiast. She is a seasoned broadcaster and voice over artist. She holds a Bachelors and Masters from UNILAG, and a PhD in Agricultural Communication from FUNAAB, Abeokuta, Ogun State, Nigeria.

Nureni Aremu BAKENNE is the Head of Media and Public Relations Unit at Tai Solarin University of Education, Ijagun, Ogun State and teaches Media Studies in the Department of Educational Technology of the same Institution. He holds a Bachelor's Degree in Mass Communication from Olabisi Onabanjo University, Ago Iwoye, Ogun State; Master of Science, Mass Communication, University of Lagos and currently a PhD student in the School of Communication, Lagos State University, LASU. His research interest includes Development Communication, Journalism and Media Studies, Indigenous and Cultural Communication and Public Relations. He has also published in reputable journals. His recent publication "BBC Sex-for-Grades Report: Nigeria Tertiary Institutions' Crisis Management Strategies and Stakeholders' Reactions" was published in Journal of Society and Media, Universitas Negeri Surabaya, East Java, Indonesia. He is a member of the Nigerian Institute of Public Relations (NIPR); Association of Communication Scholars and Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN); Advertising Practitioners Council of Nigeria (APCON); Nigerian Institute of Management (NIM); Broadcast Journalists Association of Nigeria (BJAN); Association of Nigerian Campus Broadcasting Stations (ANCABS); Freelance and Independent Broadcasters Association of Nigeria and Fellow, Faculty of Secretaries and Administrators, UK.

Stephen FATONJI is a Lecturer in the Department of Broadcasting, Lagos State University, Ojo. He holds B.sc in Broadcasting and M.sc in Communication Studies from Lagos State University. He is co-author of "Traditional Governance Perspectives in Nigerian Video Films" and "Perception of Bias in Newspaper Reportage of Corruption in Nigeria", both published in The Nigerian Journal of Communications, Vol. 12, Issue 1, 2018. He is a member of Association of Communication Scholars and Professionals of Nigeria and African Council of Communication Education.

Jamiu FOLARIN lectures at the Department of Mass Communication, Crescent University, Abeokuta, Ogun State. Jamiu is a 2020 Dubawa Research Fellow on Fact-checking at the Premium Times Centre for Investigative Journalism (PTCIJ). He holds a B.A Degree from Olabisi Onabanjo University (OOU), Ago-Iwoye; Masters Degree from the University of Lagos (UNILAG), Akoka (all in Mass Communication). He is a PhD candidate at OOU, Ago-Iwoye. His research interest includes: Media Technology, Information Disorder, Political Communication and Journalism Ethics. He has published in local and internal journals. He recently co-authored "Ethical compliance among journalists in Nigeria: A theoretical appraisal" published in Nigerian Communication & Information Technology Journal. He is a member of Association of Communication Scholars and Professionals of Nigerian, ACSPN.

Anthony Iorver IGYUVE is an Associate Professor at Nasarawa State University, Keffi. He holds BA., MSc, PhD from Benue State University, Makurdi with specialisation in Broadcast Media/ New Media. He is a member of NIPR, ACCE and ACSPN.

Bolanle Adijat ISMAIL, is a lecturer at Crescent University, Abeokuta. She holds a BSc in Mass Communication from the same institution and a Masters in the same field from University of Ilorin, Kwara. Currently a PhD student in the School of Communications, Lagos State University, LASU, her research interests include Development Communication, Social Media, Women/Youths and Political Participation. Her latest publication is titled "Ethical compliance among journalists in Nigeria: A theoretical appraisal". She is a member of the Association of Communication Scholars and Professionals of Nigerian, ACSPN.

Lambe Kayode MUSTAPHA, PhD is a senior lecturer in the Department of Mass communication, University of Ilorin. A former Post-Doctoral Teaching fellow at Univeristy Sains Malaysia, Dr Mustapha is an international published scholar with research interests in political communication, integrated marketing Communication, media effect research and social Media Studies.

Carol Dixon ODOYI, is a doctoral candidate of the Department of Linguistics and Communication Studies, University of Port Harcourt (UPH), Nigeria. She holds a Master of Arts

(MA) degree in Communication Studies, Post Graduate Diploma in Education (PGDE) and Bachelor of Arts (BA) degree in Linguistics and Communication Studies, all from UPH. She specialises in Development Communication, with great passion for Social Media Studies and Corporate Communication.

Dele ODUNLAMI, PhD is Senior Lecturer and Head, Department of Mass Communication at Olabisi Onabanjo University, Ago- Iwoye. A seasoned journalist, Dele Odunlami's media experience as a Reporter / Researcher and Principal Editor, spanned across reputable media houses in Nigeria, including the defunct African Guardian, Champion Newspapers and the Ogun State Television 25 UHF, Abeokuta.

Margaret Offoboche AGADA-MBA is a Research Fellow, University of Nigeria Nsukka. She holds an MSc. In Mass Communication from University of Lagos. PhD in view, University of Nigeria Nsukka- Development Communication. Specialisation- Broadcast Media and Communication.

Sunday OGBONNA, PhD, is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of Mass Communication, Caleb University, Lagos. He is the Deputy Dean of the College, and the immediate past Coordinator of the General Studies programme in the institution. He is a member of the IAMCR, ACSPN and ACCE, Nigerian Chapter with special interest in Journalism and PRAD.

Achike C. OKAFO has been on the academic staff of Caleb University, Imota, Lagos, in the past 10 years. He spent substantial part of his journalism career in the mass media industry, working largely in the print and electronic media. He was a former Director of Daily Times Journalism Institute. He holds a Bachelors and Masters from UNILAG.

Simon Ayodele OKAIYETO lectures at the department of Mass Communication, Salem University, Lokoja. A PhD Candidate at UNN, Okaiyeto has published articles in local and international journals. His areas of interest include Political Communication, New and Social Media, Research and Theory. He is a Member of ACCE & ACSPN

Joshua Kayode OKUNADE, PhD is Senior Lecturer in the Department of Mass Communication, Caleb University, Lagos. He has several publications to his credit in both national and international journals. His areas of specialization are Public Relations/Advertising, Broadcasting and Development Communication. He holds a PhD from Babcock University, Ogun State.

Rotimi Williams OLATUNJI, PhD, is Professor, Public Relations & Advertising, and Dean, School of Communication, Lagos State University, Nigeria. He holds a Bachelor of Arts Degree (Archaeology, First Class Honours), Obafemi Awolowo University, Ile-Ife; MA and PhD (Communication & Language Arts) University of Ibadan, Ibadan, Nigeria. His areas of research are: Advertising, economy, societies; political communication; Health communication; Public relations; and Communication Research. Two of his most recent publications are Olatunji, R. (2020). "Curricula and pedagogic issues in media and entertainment studies", (pp. 102-130) in Idowu, L. & Bello E. (eds.). Entertainment media: Redefining reality, situating entrepreneurship. Lagos, Nigeria: Diamond Publications; and Okunnu, G.O & Olatunji, R.W. (2020) "Health Crisis Communication and Post-Ebola Virus Disease Containment in Lagos State, Nigeria", International Journal of Crisis Communication, Vol. 4 No. 1, pp. 23-32. He is a Fellow, American Academy of Marketing Science; Member, Nigerian Institute of Public Relations, Associate

Registered Practitioner in Advertising (Advertising Practitioners Council of Nigeria); Member, Association of Communication Scholars & Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN) and Member, African Council for Communication Education (ACCE).

Christie U. OMEGO, PhD is a Professor of Language, Communication and Media Studies. She currently teaches in the Department of Linguistics and Communication Studies, University of Port Harcourt (UPH), Nigeria. Her areas of interest and on-going research are Print Journalism, Development Communication, Media Studies, Advertising, Information and Communication Technology (ICT), Book Publishing and Gender Studies.

Lai OSO is a Professor of Mass Communication in the Department of Journalism, Lagos State University, Ojo. He has B.sc Mass Communication (UNILAG), M.sc International Relations (Obafemi Awolowo University) and PhD (Mass Communication), University of Leicester, England. He is co-editor of the book “Beyond Fun: Media Entertainment, Politics and Development in Nigeria”, Lagos; Malthouse Press Limited, 2019.

Titilayo Remilekun OSUAGWU is a Lecturer in the Department of Linguistics & Communication Studies at University of Port Harcourt, Rivers State, Nigeria. She holds PGD, MA and PhD degrees in Communication Studies from the University of Port Harcourt, while she earned a BA (Hons) in Drama from Ahmadu Bello University, Zaria. Her current research interests include Development Communication, Gender and Communication, New Media and Cultural/Indigenous Communication. Dr Osuagwu's latest publications include Promoting Political Scandals? An Analysis of Twitter Political Discourses in 2019 General Election and An Indigenous Knowledge Communication Approach to Understanding the Role of Festivals in Community Development: The Case of Awaka-Owerri, Imo State, Nigeria. Dr Osuagwu is a member of the Association of Communication Scholars and Professionals of Nigeria (ACSPN), African Council for Communication Education (ACCE), Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication (AEJMC), National Communication Association (NCA) and International Communication Association (ICA).

Toyosi Olugbenga Samson OWOLABI, a lecturer in the Lagos State University School of Communication holds a PhD in Journalism and Development from Strathclyde University, United Kingdom. He is widely published locally and internationally. His research interests are in Journalism, communication and development.

Badmus Idowu RASHEED is of the department of Mass Communication, University of Ilorin, with area of research in political communication. Badmus has a number of peer-reviewed journals to his credit. He is currently researching Constituency communication among members of National house of Assembly in Nigeria

Ms. Yusuf KHADIJAH is an Assistant lecturer in the Lagos State University school of Communication. Her area of specialization is in Public Relations and Advertising. Her research interests include Public relations and Advertising, Health Communication, Political communication, Conflict studies and studies on gender issues in media. She is a graduate of University of Ilorin, B.A. (English), she also has a Post Graduate Diploma in Mass Communication from the National Open University, and a Master of Science Degree in Communication Studies from the Lagos State University.